

The Alien Hybrid Program

by Nadine Lalich

In considering the possible motives for a hybrid program created by extraterrestrials, I shall in this instance refer solely to my own personal experience and observations. In describing the mysterious circumstances to which I have been subjected, I can affirm that I was not under the influence of alcohol or any mind-altering substances. Nonetheless, even in those instances where the contact began while I was in a fully awake and conscious state, within seconds or minutes it was evident that the beings involved did impose upon me an altered state of some kind in order to control the event. Ultimately, the reader is left to decide whether or not my observations are worthy of consideration based solely upon their perception of my credibility as a witness and my methods of reasoning.

Experiences Used for Reference

Hybrid Child:

Off and on, for a period of about ten years beginning in my twenties, I experienced what seemed to be a reoccurring dream. Each time it occurred, I would find myself in a room of adult figures who were seated in chairs alongside a wall, below a large observation window that could provide a view to anyone outside of the room. I would be seated on the opposite side of the room looking towards the figures and the glass window. I would attempt to focus on the images of these "people," but they would fade in and out, at first looking like personal relatives and then non-distinct humanoid forms.

During each of these dreamlike experiences a female child of about four years of age would be brought into the room. I would watch as she went about the room attempting to connect with the seated figures who would not respond to her nor engage with each other. Rather, they seemed intent on observing me. As I watched the child, I would find myself emotionally stirred with sorrow, pity and an intense maternal instinct. I would call the child to me and she would usually respond, coming to stand before me. Sometimes I would ask out loud to those seated why they were not responding to the child, but I would receive no response.

With the child before me, I could see that she suffered physically: she was underweight with a painful-looking skin condition, and very thin, blonde, sparse hair. Her head was overly large for her frail body, her mouth a mere slit and only slight nostrils for a nose. What struck me most was her extraordinary eyes which were two or three times the size of a human eye, with large pupils surrounded by a blue-grey iris. She was wearing a simple, beige, sleeveless shift-style dress with no shoes on her bare feet. The dress seemed to be made of a burlap-type material. Ultimately, I would remember that I had seen the child many times before, and I would re-commit to caring for her. After a couple of years, I no longer had this dream.

Adult Hybrid:

About twenty years later, I experienced an event that began in a semi-awake state at night, but within a minute or so I temporarily lost all consciousness. Upon reawakening, I found myself on what might have been a craft (large round, metal room). It was apparent that I had been rendered into a dulled state of awareness with my vision reduced to the immediate area about me only, and my ability to act or protest had vanished. This kind of mental state is somewhat similar to the feeling of being hypnotized when the hypnotherapist has directed focus to a particular event.

As with the child hybrid scenario there were others present. I sat at a table, unable to turn my head or move. The perimeter of my vision was quite fuzzy, but I did note that there appeared to be two or three figures standing to the left and right on each side of the room. The table itself was approximately five-feet-long by three-feet-wide, and sitting opposite me were several definitely non-human figures. Six feet behind them was a wall that contained a window with a closed door alongside it that I believe led to a room behind that wall. Again, I sensed that all the occupants of the room were focused on me as if analyzing me.

Suddenly, the door opened and a tall, very slender female approached the table where I sat. She appeared to be about five-foot-eight with dry, flaky-looking skin. Her hair had been shaved to about an inch length which was mostly on the top of her head. The color was very light blonde and the texture fine. The top of her head was wide and her chin quite pointed. The eyes were very large, prominent and slanted with huge pupils and a blue-grey iris. Like the child hybrid, she had only small nostrils and a mouth without lips. She was wearing a beige, shift dress of burlap material that hung to mid-calf; I could not see her feet to see if she wore shoes.

Once at the table, she stopped and merely stared straight ahead, as though awaiting further instruction. Although she showed no emotion and did not look at me nor seem to recognize me, I was intensely drawn to her to the point of tears. I was bereft with emotion and a great sense of maternal instinct overwhelmed me; she seemed so lost and unhappy. As I was unable to move from my seat, I simply kept my gaze on her. I was startled when she abruptly moved forward and stood beside me. She then placed a hand on my left shoulder for a few seconds as if to acknowledge me, then turned away and walked back slowly through the door without looking back. Silently, I thought to myself, "She is my daughter grown up. She must be in her early twenties." I do not recall any more of that experience.

Hybrid Children in a Nursery:

Another experience where hybrid children appeared was in an event that I believe occurred while I was sleeping and removed from my bed physically or in some astral manner. When I regained consciousness, I found myself again on what appeared to be a craft, but I was standing in the doorway of a large room at least twenty-foot-long. There was also a large window for observation in the wall. A female led me into the room who was about five-foot-tall and wearing a beige, cloth shift that dropped to the mid-calf; I could not see her face. I realized it was some kind of nursery for lying or sitting upon the floor were at least a dozen babies. Quickly, I saw that something was terribly wrong with the children for they all appeared to be deformed in some manner. Many of them that were lying flat upon the floor seemed unable to raise themselves or even move. Others sat upright, but had great difficulty trying to balance an enormous head upon a tiny body. Still, others had problems with their face or skin. There was a lot of crying from the children and several other females were walking among them, staring down as if they were objects and unaware how to care for them. They seemed puzzled and curious, as if monitoring an experiment. They displayed no emotion; I did not see them stoop to touch the babies or demonstrate any other care. I would consider these female figures to be what is now commonly called by experiencers as tall Greys.

I felt myself being watched by the attendants and by someone else I could not see. There was a feeling that the observers wanted me to “do something” for these babies. I recall glancing about the room several times, taking in the great despair. My emotions overwhelmed me and I was greatly distressed, unable to move, and the experience quickly ended.

Hypothesis Regarding Hybrid Program

Because of the many anomalous experiences over the years involving apparent extraterrestrials, I have come to believe, emphatically, that the human race is not the only intelligent race in the universe. Furthermore, I am one who also believes that extraterrestrial beings have visited and continue to visit our planet on a regular basis, and also may be residing among us incognito. As with all aspects of this bizarre phenomenon, I have no concrete proof that extraterrestrials are conducting a hybrid program, but the evaluation of my own experiences, along with a strong intuitive sense tells me it is so.

If there is one or more alien races with a bona fide alien hybrid program, I do not believe it is their intention to obliterate the human race for surely they possess the technology to do so and they have not. I could imagine, though, there could be several other reasons for a hybrid program.

Creation of a Slave Race:

The intention of one or more species could be to create a new race with attributes that would prove advantageous to the “creator” species. Perhaps the creator species is unable for various reasons to occupy a particular terrestrial atmosphere or even the third-dimension. They might be creating hybrids to impersonate human beings in order to infiltrate the human race on Earth. At the same time, they could well be creating additional varieties of hybrids specifically adapted for life on other planets.

In all cases, the goal could be for the hybrids to blend with that planet's occupying species and, going unnoticed, study that species and/or the planet for purely research purposes. They could also be interested in mining or cultivating of that planet's resources, or be pursuing other science-related endeavors. Ultimately, it could simply be for purely selfish motives related to an eventual invasion and occupation of a planet, with or without the annihilation of the original resident.

Creation and Modification of the Human Species:

If, as I suspect, humanity was actually created by an alien race, or subjected to intervention at the level of DNA during its infancy, it could be possible that such a "creator" race might not be satisfied with its creation as it stands. Seeing themselves as a "god-like" force, it might be their intention to improve their creation by further adjusting our species through the addition of genetic material to our DNA, potentially from their own or from another. The resulting hybrids would be introduced into the human population and mate with humans, thus passing along the adjusted genetic material. This intervention could eventually create an entirely new human race.

Research of Human Emotion:

In the majority of my experiences, whether they appear to be physical, astral, or some other invasion of my consciousness, all alien species I have seen appear to lack any emotion. Particularly, in those experiences that are orchestrated by the tall and short Greys, tall Whites and Insectoids, it is obvious they have an extreme interest in observing and understanding human emotions. Often, they have provoked emotional responses through "staged" events, including exposure to hybrid babies, and have also created through some kind of mind control, illusory interactions with persons from the past, including those that have passed on.

If humans are the result of genetic manipulation, perhaps it is their intention to use the information they garner through emotional examination to isolate our aggressive aspects, and eradicate that from our race. Another possibility could be they recognize the fact that humanity possesses some important traits that are absent from their own race. As a result, their curiosity is aroused and their intellect challenged when we present in a way that disrupts their perspective of superiority over an inferior race. Confronted with the negative side of our emotional nature it would be easy to see our species as quite primitive. Yet, the positive qualities of our emotions, such as our response to the things we love and enjoy would be much more difficult to accept and categorize. Situations that evoke our love and compassion, inspire us to sacrifice or respond heroically, or motivate us to passionately create magnificent art might suggest we have qualities superior to their race. It could be their intention is to find that invisible element within us and to capture it for themselves.
